Monitor Board of Trade Holds Regular Meeting

A regular meeting of the Monitor Board of Trade was held in the office of Dr. Mason, on Monday last, the 7th, inst.

Meeting was called to order promptly at 8 p.m.

A communication was read from a town organization, requesting the Board to take action re the extermination of all stray cats. This matter was referred to the Town Council.

A discussion then took place in regard to the erection of a pound in town this coming coming spring. During the talk Messrs. Sloan Bros. of the O. K. Livery, stated that they would erect a pound and look after the same in conjunction with their livery barn, so citizens will have no fear that marauding cows, pigs or horses will find good sustenance on their choice carrots, lettuce, etc.

The next matter up for discussion was the Hospital. Dr. Mason was present, and in a very capable and efficient talk, outlined the dire necessity for a hospital at this point. Apart from the added inducement to a physician and surgeon to locate and remain here, the doctor showed what a saving it would mean to those who were unfortunate enough to require the services of an operation with the attendant nursing afterwards.

After the doctor's talk, the matter was thoroughly discussed, there is no doubt whatever that there will be a hospital in Monitor before the summer is over.

The matter of the appointment of a Medical Health Officer for the town was then taken up, and it was decided that this was a case for the Town Council to decide on, and it was therefore referred to them for action in this matter. The need for a M. H. O. has been proved over and over again in this last six months.

Definite action will be taken on the roads as soon as the spring opens up material for the bridges west of town is already here. The road north to the Whitton district will also be opened up.

Taken all round the meeting was a busy one, and much was accomplished.

A. T. E. A. S. C.

At the recent meeting of the Board of Trade a communication was read from a certain organization in town, requesting the said Board of Trade to exterminate all stray cats. What damage the said cats have done, or in what way they are a menace to our fair community we fail to see. However, the matter was referred to the Village Council, as now we shall probably see our worthy Reeve and Councillors Ferguson and Lander, armed with machine guns, .45's, rifles, bombs and gas-masks etc., declare a bloody war on poor pussy. The first battle will be staged on Main Street. Imagine our council, in company formation, advancing on the unsuspecting enemy, uttering their famous and blood-curdling war cries, while said enemy entrench themselves up telephone poles and any other point of vantage, enlivening the proceedings with swearing and spitting. Recruits for the Army to Exterminate All Stray Cats will now apply on masse. No age limit.

I have the honor to inform all members of Monitor Branch G. W. V. A. not in receipt of pension that Provincial Command has been successful in securing a further grant of $10,000.00 from Prov. Govt. for distribution among members who are not employed at the present time as a means of relieving the present distressing conditions prevailing throughout the province.

While this money is to be used only to alleviate distress, this branch will see that no man in this district is without material necessities of life while the money is available to help him.

Address all communications direct to me and your case will be promptly attended to.

Faternally Yours

We are glad to report that Mr. Goo, Lucas, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, is now well on the way to recovery.

On Feb. 3d. at Consort Host. Mrs. N. Delorme of Sounding Lake went through an operation for a Tumor and appendicitis and is now doing fine. The operation was performed by Dr. A. M. Day of Consort and Dr. Little of Veteran.

It is very interesting to note the "fads" that are gradually being brought into the pastime of dancing. Among the latest we notice the hideous practice of using the heel to pivot, stop, etc. A more ungraceful and ludicrous practice it were impossible to imagine. It may be modern, but apparently, so is Bolshevikism.

Mrs. J. Straw who has been visiting her brother for the past two weeks left Mon. for her home in Calgary.

Spring IS Coming

Let us save you money on ordering your gramophones or pianos. We have several agencies for the finest makes of gramophones and pianos known. One of the leading makes of gramophone is the MELOTONE.

The melotone we now have in stock, we believe to be one of the finest machines in the Dominion, and retails for from $25 to $75 less than any other standard make of machine. This machine is especially adapted for School use and for dance music in large Halls. It has been well demonstrated in the Big Hall at Monitor, and for loud tone and volume, it proved to be a surprise to all that heard it.

We have a full line of Poultry foods and Spring Tonics for Horses and Cattle. It will pay you to get your animals in good shape for the coming spring rush.

We are now Stocking Sureshot worm exterminator, and will make a specialty of our famous Ever Ready Gopher Poison, highly recommended by the Reeve and Council of the Stewart Municipality. Special prices in quantities quoted to Municipalities.

Full line of Confectionery and fresh boxed chocolates. In fact, we have everything to be found in a first class Drug Store.

Governments as Business Concerns

(Second Article)

In last week's article under the above heading attention was directed to the huge experiments now being carried on by the Dominion Government in the ownership and management of a great railway system, with the largest mileage under one control in the world, and of an ocean-going mercantile marine consisting of scores of vessels plying to ports throughout the world. It is now proposed to outline some of the business enterprises in which Provincial Governments in Canada are engaged.

While some experiments in the management of undertakings which may be regarded as commercial had been made by Provincial Governments, it was not until the creation of the new Provinces in the Prairie West that anything remarkable and on a large scale was attempted. The new Provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta had hardly been inaugurated, however, before a demand arose that the Governments should take over, operate and extend the telephone systems. This demand developed almost simultaneously in all three Prairie Provinces. With the exception of the exchanges in the larger cities, like Winnipeg and Calgary, the telephone systems were meager, unimportant and with no great investment of money involved. In this respect the situation was entirely different from that prevailing in the older Provinces. At a comparatively small investment, therefore, it was possible for Western Governments to buy out the existing private companies and commence the work of creating and extending Government-owned, and operated systems.

There were not lacking people who predicted disaster, but with the experience of older countries to guide them, and possibly also because Western people are not quite so conservative and bound by tradition, there was a practically unanimous demand that a service which in its very nature had to be a monopoly, should be owned by the people themselves. The experiment was undertaken, and experience has demonstrated its wisdom. No part of Canada, and with the possible exception of some parts of the United States, no country in the world enjoys a more extended or successful telephone service, nor a cheaper service, than the people of the three Canadian Prairie Provinces.

In Manitoba and Alberta the service is wholly Government-owned and operated, but in Saskatchewan the Government owns and operates all the exchanges and long distance lines, while the rural post lines are owned by co-operative companies of the people directly concerned, assisted by the Government, and connected with the Government lines and as an integral part of the whole Provincial system. Some people hold the view that the Manitoba and Alberta plan is best; others favor the Saskatchewan plan. Both are giving almost complete satisfaction in their respective Provinces, and it is an acknowledged fact that under the Saskatchewan plan the extension of rural lines has been more rapid, and the service equally as cheap and good, as in the neighboring Provinces. No one would even suggest a return to the old privately-owned systems which are still in vogue in other Provinces, especially as each of the three Government systems are linked together and thus provide all the advantages of interprovincial service which one large company would afford.

In Ontario two large enterprises of a business nature have been undertaken, and both appear to be rendering splendid service to the public at reasonable rates and not causing financial embarrassment to the Government of that Province. First and foremost is the Hydro-Electric whereby the Provincial Government, working in conjunction with the municipalities, develops electric energy at Niagara Falls, and from other water powers, and transmits it throughout the Province, the various municipalities buying the energy in bulk and distributing it to users within their respective municipalities. The development and extension of the Hydro system in Ontario is working an industrial revolution in that Province.

Ontario's second business undertaking is the Government railway which taps the far northern mining and lumbering sections of the Province and brings them into direct communication with the manufacturing and agricultural sections and centres of population. This railway has been an important agency in the development of the rich mineral resources of Ontario, has added in the settlement of many thousands of acres of land, and has added enormously to the wealth of the Province and Dominion.

There are other business aspects to the work of Provincial Governments, particularly in the Western Provinces, but, as they are not under direct Government ownership and operation, a consideration of these other matters will be deferred for a future article.

No Open Door To Oil Fields

Mounted Police Will Guard Every Route to the North.

The only way to get into the North during the coming spring and summer, by any route, will be to qualify for, obtain and carry clearance papers from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. There will be no such thing as booking passage without them, and there will be no open door into the oil country on any other terms.

No flying machine of any type will be permitted to leave for the Mackenzie territory without clearing the police or without each of its passengers being certified by a medical officer as physically and mentally fit to make the trip.

Bad Breath IS CAUSED BY CATARRH

Canadians suffer more from Catarrh than from any other disease. On that account Catarrh is dangerous and should be checked at the outset.

It is necessary to take internal medicine to cure Catarrh. There is a better method.

Doctors now treat Catarrh by sending a purifying, healing vapor through the breathing organs. In this way the germs of Catarrh are destroyed.

The only successful vapor treatment is CATARRHOZON, which the patient breathes through a special inhaler to the real seat of the trouble.

The rich piney essences of Catarrhozone heal and soothe all inflamed surfaces.

They effectively "treat the nose, throat and lungs with a powerful antiseptic that destroys irritation at once."

Catarrhozone brings into the system the balmy air of the pine forest.

It relieves completely colds, coughs, catarrh, weak throat and bronchitis.

Once tried, Catarrhozone is always used.

Nothing so pleasant, so simple, so quick to relieve, so absolutely sure to permanently help, except to substitute.

First trials of the rocket which it is hoped will reach the moon will be held early this summer, it is announced by Prof. Robert H. Goddard, of Clark University, the inventor. It will be designed so it will give off a flash when it strikes that will be seen from the earth.

The propelling force of the rocket will be smokeless powder. Prof. Goddard explained that to reach an altitude of 25 miles a rocket weighing 25 pounds will be necessary. Of the total weight about 17 pounds will be powder.

He calculates that with an initial mass charge weighing 6,436 pounds he could cause an explosion large enough to be seen from the earth through a telescope. This rocket would travel 6,000 or 7,000 feet a second.

Everybody Loses in War

World Needs a New Rule, Giving Life
Instead of Bringing Death.

We have learned nothing from the last war if we deliberately enter upon a series of preparations for a new one. If such a course be necessary we have not a peace, but an armed truce. We stopped the Germans and Austrians from wrecking the world, and there found there was no way to make them either repair the war damage or pay the costs of the war. They were powerless to do so if they desired ever so ardently to make full reparation.

Therefore, there is no such thing as "success in war." The glitter and gold of war has been found to be a mere gilding of the habiliments of death; the stirring melodies of the military band lead only to the cemetery; the prancing war horse carries his rider to an unmarked grave; everybody loses.

What the world needs is a new rule: giving life, instead of the old rule, bringing death. Billions spent for armaments by Great Britain, the United States and Japan would mean another reign of suspicion and terror throughout all the nations.—From the Vancouver Sun.

The Church and Its Work By The Rev. W. S. Wickenden

Jesus of Nazareth passeth by
St. Luke 18. 37

Blind Bartimaeus heard of the love and power of Jesus. This led him to hope. And hope led him to action. In spite of the discouragement of the crowd he persistently called out "Jesus, thou Son of David, have mercy upon me." His faith, his implicit trust led to his cure and to his salvation. "Thy faith hath made thee whole," said the Lord Jesus. And henceforth Bartimaeus became a disciple, "he followed Jesus in the way."

My friend, have you yet realized that by nature you are blind and that none but Jesus can give you spiritual sight? In this day of grace Jesus of Nazareth is passing by; and He is still the same, ready and willing to hear and answer the cry for mercy. Such is the testimony of a great company in all ages and in every land, who having trusted in Jesus, have experienced the peace and rest which He promised.

Appendicitis Prevented
Life Lengthened
Health Maintained

Thousands Finding Wonderful Benefit in a Simple Home Remedy That Costs But a Quarter.

Doctors say if people kept their bowels in proper order there would be no such disease on record as appendicitis. It is due solely to neglect, and is therefore preventable.

If you have constipation, bad breath or headache you need medicine right away.

The moment you suspect your bowels are clogged you should take Dr. Hamilton's Pills—the smoothest regulator of them all. They move the bowels and cleanse the body so smoothly you scarcely notice the effect. But you can get the action just the same. Taken at night you wake up next morning, clear-headed, hungry, rested, energetic, feeling like a different man.

Why don't you spend a quarter today and try Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They work so easy, just as nature would order, never gripe or cause headache. Finest thing for folks that are out of sorts, depressed, lacking in color and spirits.

Folks that use Dr. Hamilton's Pills are never sick, never an ache or a pain, and good all the time simply because their system is clean, regulated and healthy. This you can easily prove yourself.

Somethin' like a laugh came from the darkness outside, but it was so closely followed by another long-drawn wail that Amos hid his face among the leaves again.

"You have been stealin' turkeys out of these traps," accused the voice.

"Answer, haven't you, Amos?"

"Yes, I have."

"When was you here last?"

"Thursday night."

"Then it was you fired on Boy McTavish when he surprised you?"

"No, I swear I didn't."

"You're lyin', Mates, get the fire ready."

"Hol' on, devils. I speakin' the truth. I didn't fire on Boy. I was scared and my rifle went off by accident. It wasn't pointed at you at all—I swear it."

The yellow glow of fire came flickering through the chinks in the logs.

"What air you doin'?" cried the wretch in the trap in agonizing voice.

"We're goin' to apply the fire. You are goin' to be rewarded for stealin' Amos."

"Oh, don't—don't," pleaded Amos. "I'm real scared. You'll only let me off this time, good 'tches."

Slowly the fog fell away from the opening and a voice said:

"Come out here, Brodbeck."

The man needed no second invitation. He scrambled out and made a dash for the heavy timber. But Boy McTavish tripped him up and Paisley gripped his windpipe. He was dragged back into the light of the fire and Boy picked up his gun.

"Get out!" commanded Bill. "Now, you thief, what have you got to say for yourself?"

Brodbeck commanded Paisley to the lower regions.

"I'm not goin' to say a word," he snarled, "you can't make me, either."

He struggled and Paisley's knee gripped more deeply into his neck.

"Think you're mighty strong 'un, don't you, growl'd Amos. "Think you've done somethin' I suppose in trappin' me up an' holdin' me down. Any boy could do as much as that. You was scart' to give me half a chance, you was."

"What do you mean by chance,

Amos?" asked Paisley, the corners of his mouth twitching. "You don't mean to say that you'd fight, do you? Why, man alive, you can't fight—you're too big a coward."

"If I was on my feet I'd make you eat them words," spat Brodbeck. "But I really thought there was any snuff in you I'd let you try," grinned Paisley. "By gosh, I'll do it, but listen, Amos, if you make an' break for the woods, Boy there will sure plug you."

"Don't let him go, Bill," warned Boy. "If he gets away now there's no tellin' what he'll do. He's just wanna get a chance to get in timber. I got know, and I know, he won't fight. He's too much of a skinnin' coward."

Brodbeck turned his malignant face toward Boy. In the yellow light it looked fearful. He opened his mouth to speak, but before he could finish his words he would say a small disheveled form came bounding and panting into their midst.

It was Daft Davie, his face flushed and bleeding from scratches of low-hanging twigs. He sank on his knees before the fire and poured forth some words in his strange gobbler. Boy quick to understand, the daft chappie gave a low cry. Paisley spoke sharply.

"What is he sayin', Boy?" he asked. "He says that there are five men tryin' to get into our house," gasped Boy. "Bill, I don't understand this, but there's no time to lose. Let Brodbeck alone till another time. I'll take his gun. For gawd sakes, let's get out of here."

Brodbeck crept toward the fire, and the sharp, hot breath hurried his movements materially.

"Nurse, that you, skunk, till we meet again," he cried.

Then he turned quickly and followed Boy. Daft Davie had already vanished in the darkness.

CHAPTER XXIV.
The Night Attack.

The men plunged through the timber toward the settlement. The ground was soft with snow now and the darkness was so dense that only their sense of direction made progress at all possible.

"Bill," panted Boy, "it's likely Hallibut and his gang."

"Likely. But they'll reckon with us now," fumed Paisley, "that is, if we're not too late," he added in his throat.

A rifle shot rang out on the night and the men quickened their pace.

"That's it at our place, all right," gasped Boy.

Paisley did not reply. In his heart was a great fear that they would be too late to lend succor to the man and helpless woman in the McTavish home. At their fastest they could make slow progress through the timber, and several times were they brought up short and breathless by coming in violent contact with trees. It was an agonizing half-hour, this frenzied rush through a forest in pitch darkness. When the timber grew snarser and the footing better they bounded on, crashing through the thick undergrowth and leaping wide patches of open ground. Mac shock his head.

"I'm afraid to fall here by the fire, and Gloss, ma and Granma was busy in there with the spinnin' when Daft opened the window there behind you and dropped in. I could be awful excited, so I called Gloss out. She can understand his tongue better," he said, and when she told me what Davie had seen I told her what I had seen. I was gettin' down the guns and Gloss was lockin' the door. Davie crawled outside again. I wouldn't have let him go, but he slipped away. I weakly, "only those rough men frightened me so much I feel like being babied, auntie. Take me like you used to when I was a little girl and set me tight. It seems I want you to do that again."

She broke off and lay again, frightened about Boy's neck. Then she unclenched her hands and she arose, staggering, a flush wiping the pallor from her face.

"I guess I wasn't just myself, Boy," she stammered.

And leaning on the older woman's arm she passed slowly out of the room.

Big McTavish, who was replacing his rifle in the rack, turned.

"Will they come back, d'ye think?" he asked.

"Most likely," Paisley answered; "but not again to-night, though they're some anxious to live, I suppose. Now," he cried sharply, "why were they here, and what do they mean by tryin' to break into your house?" he added.

Rebellion Days, 1884-85

By O-GE-MAS-ES (Little Clerk).

The winter of 1884-5 was my first experience as a free trader. I had located with my family close to the forks of Stony Creek, now in the Melfort district. On account of high prices in Prince Albert, I had made a trip to Fort Qu'Appelle (some 250 miles) and purchased a small trading outfit from the Hudson's Bay Company at that point.

Some two miles to the south of my location was an H. B. C. wintering post, also two French half-breed traders, one of whom was the well-known Xavier Batoche from whom that settlement is named. Being the first genuine white settler to locate here, some of the Indians were violently opposed to this intrusion on their hunting grounds, and on two occasions armed parties of them warned us off the premises.

Well I remember my first interview with the Kinston band. I was looking over a line of traps I had on the east fork of the creek. It was a cold raw evening early in December. I was homeward bound and had just ran down the bank of the creek to look at a mink trap, and to my joy here was a big fellow. I at once knocked him on the head and put him in my hunting bag which by the way was nearly full and heavy. I reset my trap and was climbing up the bank, when, turning my head, here was Mr. Mink within an inch of my ear and snarling like a wicked dog. I slipped a lynx snare over his head, thinking if clubbing would not kill him, why hanging should. Being so busily engaged, I had not noticed a bunch of mounted Indians who were watching my proceedings with great interest. Boldness is always the best policy with savages, and walking up to the leader (old Kinston himself) I held out my hand with the usual "Wa-chea, Wa-chea." He took no notice, but in an angry voice, and speaking the broadest of Santeaux, asked, "What have you in that bag?" I remained silent, and again came the question, "What have you in that bag?" In reply I up-ended it. The contents were one beaver, which I had trapped at his beaver, one lynx, and five minks, one of which I was still dangling in my hand. The scene was a wild one. The Indians were all big men and their blankets and loose leggings made them look still bigger, painted with scarlet and green paint, feathers waving, all armed, five of them carrying repeating Winchesters. I sure had not much of a chance if it came to a racket, and their looks were hostile enough. Now the old man was speaking again, and pointing at the game, he said: "Don't you realize that you have stolen these furs; that you are a stranger and a trespasser here, with your white face. Go away and go quick, or worse will happen," and so on to this effect. It was rapidly getting dusk and I was some ten miles from home, so stooping down and gathering up my furs, I said: "Grandfather, I am sorry you are feeling badly about my little hunt, but I also trade and hope to call at your camp through the winter, or see you if you are living in furs. Go," was his reply, and so I did, glad enough at last to see the light in the window of our log cabin. This was my first meeting with famous Kinston and it could not be called a friendly one.

In the meantime I had made some friends amongst the Indians, especially with O-sow-win-is-su (The South Wind) and his band. We had been able to show some kindness towards one of his sons who was very ill from consumption. The old man and I found we were connected in the Indian way, as Ki-say-the-nish in the Pas Mountain was his Cha-Cha-Wow as well as mine. Then Cha-kas-ta-pa-sin had a few tents and were friendly. Some Nut-Lakers came in to trade during the winter, and I found them as a rule a saucy disagreeable bunch with a bad reputation; as twice since I came to the west they had robbed the H. B. Co. post at Nut Lake. Opposition in the fur trade was keen, especially from the French traders, one of whom Maxime (afterwards sentenced to seven years in penitentiary) was extremely surly whenever we met, and I soon found out that he was preaching active rebellion in every camp. Well I had not been trained in the Hudson's Bay service by some famous factors if I could not go one better than a French half-breed, so I became a strong counter influence in the cause of loyalty against Maxime, and with success in three of the closest bands. Kinston's, however, remained squarely neutral, while there was no doubt about the Nut Lakers' hostility. Many rumors were flying about all winter. Riel was in the country holding meetings both against the white settlers and natives, making his headquarters both at Duck Lake and Batoche. Runners were being sent by him to the various Indian camps throughout North Saskatchewan. I only went for my mail once a month, so was largely dependent on Indian and traders' reports for news. March came blustery and cold with deep snow, trade was good, and I was busy enough attending to it. Early in April, We-ah-gun, a son of The South Wind, came in from his camp and as usual asked at once for news, and I could see he was excited and had heard no doubt much more than myself. After a quiet chat, I gathered they had heard of fighting near Duck Lake, in which report said, the whites were defeated. His father did not wholly credit this, so sent him in to me for further news. But as I was quite in the dark, we decided to ride up to the Hudson's Bay post and get further particulars. The last half mile was through heavy timber, and I was riding ahead. On coming out at the site of the trading shanty, here was evidently a hurried abandonment, empty boxes were lying around and the place apparently deserted. Why we were looking over the scene, the door of the H. B. shack was partly open, and out stuck an Indian's head—stranger, and in full war paint. My companion with dilated nostrils gave one glance at him, gathered up his bridle reins and whipping his pony went off east at a mad gallop. The head was withdrawn and the door closed. I tied my horse up and went in. One Indian and his squaw were the only occupants, with a bundle of bedding. His powder horn was hanging close to me and I gave it a shake and noted it was empty. Also glancing at the kota hanging in the chimney, I saw it only contained water. Evidently a pair were very poor and out of both ammunition and grub. I asked them at once to come down and camp at my house, saying we had a native nurse girl there who thoroughly understood Santeaux. But they would not speak. Finally, tiring of their silence, I said, "Well, the distance is only two or three miles. I will carry your bundle on the saddle and you can follow." So out we went and after riding slowly for a little distance, glanced back and saw they were following. After a night at the house and two good meals, Mr. Indian thawed out a little and began to talk. His wife had opened her heart to our girl and verified the Indian news about the Duck Lake fight. They both claimed had been started by the whites, and he further went on to say that his own brother was the first Indian shot by Joe McKay (police interpreter), and that he was on his way to join Riel's men and try and avenge his brother's death, a project, however, which his wife was very much opposed to. The reason, he explained, of their poverty, was that they started out with a pony which drowned while crossing a river and they lost their effects.

Express Rates Boosted

Rates Increase Granted in Judgment Handed Down by Railway Commission

Ottawa.—In a lengthy judgment covering some 27 typewritten pages, the Board of Railway Commissioners grants to Canadian express companies, an increase of 35 per cent. on first class rates, 25 per cent. on second class and 20 per cent. on commodity rates, including principally, cream, fish and fruit.

The judgment which is concurred in by all the commissioners who sat in the case, was written by Chief Commissioner F. B. Carvell. In addition to the increases mentioned above, it provides that the rate on all spirituous liquors in the future is to be increased to first class. The carriage differential at non-carriage points has been eliminated, and as a result express charges will be the same to all points, whether city, town or country.

First Entry in Cross-Atlantic Race.

Grocers Taking Less Profit on Many Lines

Red Rose Tea People Make a Further Statement.

Some of our friends among the grocers, in speaking of our letter to the press on grocers' profits, have asked what that article means. We constructed it for our readers to mean that Red Rose Tea was the only article on which the grocer takes a smaller profit, in order to give his customers a higher quality.

It was not our intention to convey such an impression, as we know that most grocers sell well known brands of other goods at less profit than they could make on Red Rose Tea, equally well known, and for the same reason that they recommend Red Rose Tea, simply to give their customers the best possible value.

In our letter we mentioned Red Rose Tea because it naturally came first to our mind and because we knew that grocers were selling it at a less profit than they make on other tea.

Germany Told How To Meet Her Obligations

Financial Experts Say That Conditions Are Misrepresented to Escape Payments.

Paris.—Germany is told exactly how to eliminate the 76,000,000 marks deficit in her 1920 budget in the report to the allies of the conference of financial experts, held in Brussels.

Certain German expenses are declared to have been multiplied 75 times over those of 1919, and certain German taxes are shown to be far below those the allied populations are paying. The report says:

"Many figures in the ordinary budget seem to have been established by an administration and parliament equally desirous of showing the world the precarious financial condition of Germany and her difficult situation."

"If the various recommendations made are followed, the budget should be speedily balanced," says the report. Thus, with a continuation of Germany's economic recovery the experts declare that Germany, "in a relatively short period, can meet her treaty obligations through taxation without continuing to increase her floating debt or inflate her currency."

The report says the 1919 and 1920 budgets of Germany carried a number of credits which were only partially disbursed, such as 16,500,000,000 marks for the allied armies of occupation expenses, of which only 4,500,000,000 marks was spent. The budget for 1920 carried 42,000,000,000 marks for execution of the peace treaty, while only 17,000,000,000 marks had been paid out up to December last.

Crerar Receives Endorsement

Saskatchewan Grain Growers Give Farmer Leader Enthusiastic Reception.

Moose Jaw.—The Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association enthusiastically endorsed the leadership of Hon. T. A. Crerar in federal politics, following his address before the session of the annual convention. The resolution endorsed, promised the support of the association to the New National Policy of the Farmer Associations, in federal politics and approved the choice of Mr. Crerar as the next Premier of Canada. Hon. T. A. Crerar received an ovation as he arose after the chairman, J. A. Maharg, president of the association, had referred to him as the next Premier of Canada.

Delegates gave him three cheers and a tiger. Commencing his address he thanked the delegates for the reception tendered him. His subject was "The Canadian Political Outlook," and he began by reference to the development of the farmers' association in politics and paid tribute to pioneers in the movement. The provincial political organization has caused Dominion-wide comment, he said, and in the broader field of federal politics the association is faced with many new problems. He referred first to the railway problem, which he said was one of the most important demanding consideration. This problem must be faced courageously and hundreds of miles of track which are not paying the capital outlay or even the operating expenses may be torn up. The matter must be treated in the same manner as any private business and unprofitable portions cut out. The system should be revalued and put on an economic operating basis, he said, if the deficit of over $60,000,000 faced by the 22,000 miles of government-owned system is to be cut down. An orgy of rail building in which lines were duplicated he held responsible.

Immigrants should be settled along the government lines to build up business.

Government activities in regard to immigration amounts to very little, he declared. A different policy must be followed, and immigrants who can go on the land should be encouraged.

Immigrants, he continued, must be taught the principles of good citizenship and past practices must be stopped. Standards, he said, must be raised and he added: "We don't want any more warlike elections act."

Discussing the tariff, he referred to the fallacy of the present Government policy which while it tends to a self-contained country, is advocated by a government which is sending its trade commissioners soliciting trade to all parts of the world. The population of Canada cannot, he said, consume half the wheat production of Canadian farms and the establishment of a home market by protection is no benefit to the basic industry.

When you go to a physician to be taught for any heart trouble one of the first questions he asks is: "Are you short of breath?"

On the first sign of the heart becoming weakened or the nerves unstrung, take a few drops of Nervine Pills are just the remedy you require.

They regulate and stimulate the heart, and strengthen and restore the whole nerve system.

Mr. Stephen Cross, East Clifford, N.S., writes: "I suffered for five years with heart trouble. I could hardly walk from the house to the barn without resting, as I could not catch my breath. Doctors could not help me. My wife told me to get a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and I felt better after taking them; three boxes made me quite well. I am now helping my son to work the farm, and can truthfully say I feel like a different person."

To Eliminate Overlapping

Close Co-operation to be Established By Governments on Farming Question.

Ottawa.—Overlapping in the work of the federal and provincial departments of agriculture will be eliminated and closer co-operation established through an agreement reached at a conference of representatives of these departments, according to the report of the Minister of Agriculture for the year ending March 31, 1920.

Production advocacy, it was agreed at the conference, is to be carried on through provincial activities while marketing and experimental work are to be carried on by the federal department, except where arrangements to the contrary are deemed wise.

Huns Will Be There

Britain Confident That Germans Will Come to London Council.

London.—Invitations to Germany to attend the Allied Supreme Conference will be dispatched in a few days, and the British officials do not even consider the possibility of Germany refusing to attend. They declare it will be only worse for Germany if she declines.

The Supreme Council fully expects German protests on the reparations announcement but as a matter of fact, the protests are not as great as anticipated in view of the objections taken by Germany at the time of the peace conference.

Manitoba Takes Butter Championship

Winnipeg.—Manitoba carried off the interprovincial butter-making championship at the creamery butter exhibition, which is one of the features of the annual convention of the Western Dairy Association and allied interests at present being held here.
